Free Consumer Protection Workshop

West Palm Beach, FL -- The Area Agency on Aging of Palm Beach/Treasure Coast, Inc., in conjunction with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, the Office of the State Attorney, 19th Judicial Circuit, Indian River Council on Aging and Indian River County Victims' Rights Coalition, is pleased to present a free workshop entitled "The Name of the Game is Consumer Protection".

This informative workshop will take place at the Senior Center at Indian River Council on Aging, located at 694 14th Street, Vero Beach, from 10 AM to Noon on Wednesday, March 15, 2006. A complimentary continental breakfast, provided by Regency Park, will be available at 9:30 A.M. The guest presenter will be James R. Kelly, Director of the Division of Consumer Services from Tallahassee.

Discussions will cover what steps consumers can take to protect themselves against scams and crime. Subjects will include; motor vehicle repair, charitable organizations, intrastate moving companies, the Florida do not call law, travel agencies and the Florida lemon law. A question and answer session will follow the presentation.

For more information about the free consumer protection workshop please contact Lane Frye at (772) 778-5060.
